

PASSENGERS REMOVED TO SAFETY FROM TWO BATTERED LINERS; THREE HUNDRED KNOWN DEAD IN WAKE OF BIG HURRICANE

All Aboard Storm-Battered "Dixie," and Rammed "Doric" Are Rescued — Weather Reports State Hurricane Is Through As A Destructive Storm

(By International News Service)

MIAMI, Florida, Sept. 5.—All passengers have been removed from the battered Morgan liner "Dixie," which has been aground on Florida Keys since late Monday, according to a radio message received from the rescue vessel by the Tropical Radio Station.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(INS)—All 736 passengers of the Cunard-White Star liner "Doric," which collided with the French freighter "Formigny" early this morning off the Portuguese coast, have been removed safely to the British liners "Orion" and "Viceroy of India," it was officially announced today.

It was also stated the sea at the scene of the accident was calm and that complete order prevailed. Damage to the "Doric" was described as not serious.

The "Formigny" was reported continuing her voyage to Oran, Algeria, apparently undamaged in the crash.

MIAMI, Florida, Sept. 5.—Three rescue ships which kept a two-day vigil around the stricken liner "Dixie," driven aground by Monday's hurricane on French Reef on the Florida Keys, early today brought 95 weary but happy passengers back to land here. Thirty more of the "Dixie's" passengers were en route to Charlestown, S. C., in two other vessels, while the remainder of the 384 passengers and crew waited for abatement of renewed winds and rain, for rescue.

The Coast Guard cutter "Carabassett" reached Miami harbor shortly after midnight, bringing the first batch of 23 from the "Dixie." It was followed by the freighter "El Mundo" with 20 passengers and a short time later "L'Occidentale" of the Morgan Line landed 50 more of the "Dixie's" passengers. Twenty additional passengers were reported aboard the steamship "Atems" bound for Charlestown, S. C., and ten aboard the "Reaper," bound for Wilmington, Del.

The rescued passengers brought harrowing tales of their experience. The storm struck when the passengers were at lunch. Swept by mountainous seas, the Dixie's lifeboats were smashed and the salons and cabins battered and the superstructure of the liner badly damaged, the passengers stated.

Edward B. Bronnell, of New York City, gave a graphic account of his experience: "For four hours we were huddled together in absolute darkness in the ship's salon, while four inches of water splashed over the seats. I was cut on the foot by a piece of broken glass as windows were smashed by the terrific force of the waves."

Isaac Noble, New York and San Francisco, stated: "When we received orders to don life-belts, I was resigned to die. It was dark at 4.30 p. m., and when the lights went off we sang and played music to avert panic. The rescue boats were the grandest sight I have ever seen."

MIAMI, Florida, Sept. 5.—Three hundred known dead lay in the wake of the West Indies hurricane today that lashed the Florida Peninsula for three days and was scouring Northern Florida and Southern Georgia today, but with rapidly diminishing force. Reports from the weather bureau at Jacksonville stated early today that the hurricane "is through as a destructive storm."

Meanwhile, rescue workers in Southern Florida scoured the isolated Keys south of Miami where the hurricane wiped out several working encampments during the last three days. The toll of death and destruction from the winds and accompanying tidal wave, mounted as rescue workers penetrated further into the Keys.

Two hundred seventy-nine War Veterans, many of them members of the bonus army sent here on a S. E. R. A. rehabilitation project, were known to be dead on upper and lower Matcumbe Keys. To these were added 21 civilians drowned by the waters that surged over Tavenier or crushed by wind-driven timbers. The total known dead early today was 300.

Dr. Joseph Stewart, Jr., Miami, who flew to aid the sufferers, radioed he has counted 125 dead in Camp No. 5 in Lower Matcumbe; 54 dead at Camp No. 3 on Islamorao, and 21 dead at Camp No. 1 on Upper Matcumbe.

Pre-Primary Conference Elicits Much Interest

Much interest is shown in the Pre-Primary Conference to be held Wednesday, September 11, at two p. m., in Newtown Friends Meeting House, under auspices of Bucks County League of Women Voters.

As previously announced, assemblyman Thomas B. Stockman will be one of the speakers on the State Constitutional Convention Referendum to be decided on September 17. An opportunity will be given for general floor discussion of this vital question.

The candidates' hour is quite certain to interest men and women of both parties. As it was impossible to find a place on the program for all aspirants to the 14 county offices to be filled, the executive board selected the county treasurer and the county commissioners as offices to be stressed on this occasion.

Invitations have been sent to the 21 candidates running for these three places, asking them to be present and to speak briefly of their platforms. Many acceptances have been received. Those whose minds are already made up as to whom to support will doubtless want to hear the arguments of their favorites, while those still undecided will be glad of this opportunity of help in making such selection.

Bucks Rescue Squad To Solicit Funds Here

Members of the Bucks County Rescue Squad will solicit funds in Bristol on Saturday and Sunday and they request that the public be as liberal as possible with their donations.

The solicitors will be in uniform and will make a house to house canvass.

The money contributed is to be used for the maintenance of the ambulance service and the headquarters.

Changes Mind

Philadelphia, Sept. 5 — Joseph Sweeney, 38, believed to be a resident of Wilmington, Del., may have changed his mind about suicide too late, doctors said today. After registering at a center city hotel last night, Sweeney telephoned the night clerk and said, "I have just taken poison, call a doctor."

GETS JAIL TERM FOR STEALING RADIO AT GIRL FRIEND'S HOME

BLAMES IT ON DRINKING

Miss Alice Maier Given Pawn Ticket for Stolen Radio

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 5.—"Judge, will you please send me to the penitentiary, instead?" That request came from Aris Willingham, of South Carolina, who lived in Philadelphia for the past eight years, as President Judge Hiram H. Keller sentenced the tall, sharp-featured young Southerner to serve not less than 18 months nor more than three years in the County Prison on a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods, in court here, Tuesday. He was also directed to pay the costs of prosecution.

The defendant, well dressed and debonaire, pleaded guilty to stealing a car from William Stickle, of Croydon, and a radio from his fiancée, Alice Maier, on August 13.

Willingham, who gave his Philadelphia address as 1117 North 17th street, denied to the Court that he was connected with any gang although he had criminal records in three counties—Philadelphia, Montgomery and Chester.

His convictions ranged from worthless check charges to bigamy, fraud and other serious crimes.

"Your record is a bad one. If you can't keep out of trouble up here, why didn't you go back to South Carolina when you were on parole?" asked President Judge Keller as Assistant District Attorney Edward G. Biester

SCOUT TROOP LEAVES FOR NEW ENGLAND TOUR

Group Addressed by District Attorney Eastburn and Others

THERE ARE 3 PATROLS

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 5.—"I am sure that each one of you is going to enjoy every minute of your trip, and I want to urge you to do everything that you can to make the burdens of your leaders as light as possible," said Camping Committee Chairman, Arthur M. Eastburn, in the basement of the Salem Reformed Church while addressing the Bucks County Council Jamboree Troop that left yesterday for a tour of the New England States and New York City. Before 150 people gathered to participate in the "send off" Campfire, Mr. Eastburn urged the Scouts to remember they were Bucks County boys, that the county was proud of their splendid Scout records, and that he knew they would always conduct themselves as gentlemen. It was his humorous thought that if the rain continued, it would be better to have the Seascout Ship take the Scouts on a tour than to use the bus. Mr. Eastburn concluded by saying "It is splendid of the parents and friends of the boys to come from as far distant as Bristol, Morrisville, and Quakertown to participate in the Campfire."

Burgess George S. Hotchkiss graciously extended a friendly, cordial welcome to the Jamboree Scouts for their overnight stay here. He was glad of the opportunity of saying "hello" to such a splendid group of boys who must have been considerably disappointed when the Jamboree was cancelled. He spoke of the many interesting things to see in New England, and reminded the Scouts that they should be observant and enjoy many things. The things that people do in New England may seem humorous, but likewise, the things we do may seem humorous to them. During the past few weeks the Burgess has been attempting to do some wood-carving, and realized the value of sharp tools. It was his opinion that the New England Tour would be a sharpening of mental tools for all of the Scouts and Leaders, who are finding it possible to go.

"Be observant, be friendly, follow your leader, and keep healthy," was the advice given by Rev. Charles F. Freeman, pastor of the Salem Reformed Church. Mr. Freeman has traveled extensively in America and Europe, and spoke of many interesting things that he had enjoyed by following the four points of a good tourist. Mr. Freeman said, "It is going to be one of the finest trips you can have. As you travel, keep your eyes open. Don't get impatient as you go through the Tour. Someone has spent hours of time in planning the trip that you can see everything, and by following your leaders, you will not miss anything. Our Church is delighted to have the pleasure of entertaining you for the Campfire, and being our guests overnight."

Scout Executive William F. Livermore spoke of the safety precautions, places of interest and administration.

WHY NOT LIFT THE LID?

[Oil City (Pa.) Derrick, August 9, 1935]

Were some able newspaper man to write the off-the-record story of the New Deal he would produce one of the world's best sellers. This book should be honest, fair, factual and incisive. It should not be written anonymously. But it should separate the wheat from the chaff and the sheep from the goats, and it should be pitiless in its publicity.

The despair of almost every executive editor is the dearth of inside stuff from Washington. If the boys have it they are not writing it. Why?

Would they be barred from the presidential press conferences? Would they be ostracized in official quarters? Is there some free-masonry among the correspondents which compels them to suppress the mistakes, the confusion, the cross currents and the general ineptitude of the government? Or is it just not kosher to analyze the motives, emotions and personalities of the principal actors?

To our way of thinking Washington is unfolding one of the great dramas of modern times. The World War with all its cost in men and money did not begin to produce the effect on the nation that the New Deal has.

In 1917 and 1918 we raised an army of four and a half millions, sent half of them to France, lost something over 100,000 of them, brought back some 300,000 wounded, gassed and diseased, spent some 25 billion dollars (ten of which we lent to other nations), won the war, demobilized the army and settled down to our own knitting.

The war over, we found jobs for our four and a half millions of men. We built hospitals to treat our sick and wounded. We made the care of veterans the first charge on the federal purse. We handed the owners back their railroads after a two year operating loss of $1,600,000,000. Then what?

Over a decade we reduced the national debt at the rate of a billion a year, although Europe defaulted on her debt payments. And we did all these things for something less than half the money the government is spending now and has been spending every year for the past three. Not only did we balance our budgets but we rolled up whopping surpluses and reduced taxes on everybody.

Take our President. What has caused him to repudiate his own and his party's pledges to cut the cost of government 25 per cent and reduce bureaucracy to a minimum?

After promising the nation sound money why did he devalue the dollar to 59 cents? If he had to take the country off the gold standard temporarily why does he not restore it? Why did he resort to the dishonorable expedient of repudiating the gold clause in the government's contracts?

Why Mr. Roosevelt's embracement of a program that out-socializes the platform of the socialist party and the preachments of Eugene Debs and Norman Thomas? Did he tell the people when he was a candidate that he intended to Russinize the United States?

What changed Mr. Roosevelt, or was he that way all the time? Was the Democratic stage set for a socialist coup d'etat? And how does the Democratic party relish the idea of being bilked?

Why the mysticism of those press conferences? Why is it that anything which the President declares to be "off the record" remains off the record? Is it in keeping with the freedom of the American press to submit to this censorship?

What has alienated from the administration and its New Deal the support of every distinguished Democrat we have—such men as Glass and Byrd of Virginia, Tydings of Maryland, Bailey of North Carolina, Smith, Davis and Young of New York, Long of Louisiana, Baker and Davey of Ohio, Ely, Walsh and Curley of Massachusetts and Reed of Missouri?

Active in Mr. Roosevelt's nomination in 1932 was Hearst, but why have Hearst and his great newspaper chain turned against the President? Why the active opposition of that great weekly, the Saturday Evening Post, and practically every great magazine and newspaper in the land?

Why were comparatively obscure persons like Ickes, Hopkins, Tugwell and Wallace elevated to high positions and given plenary powers? Why do men like Jack Garner, Jim Farley, Pat Harrison and Joe Robinson—knowing as they must that the New Deal is as crazy as sheol—submit to the White House, meekly accept the socialistic measures prepared by the Brain Trust and then do their best to jam them through congress? They know better. Everybody knows they know better.

Is it characteristic of the extreme modernism of the New Deal for the secretary of labor to take the name of "Frances Perkins" when her real name is Mrs. Paul Wilson and she has a daughter who is a young lady?

What strange atmosphere has enveloped Washington? Is it metaphysical or pathological? What is the secret?

MORRISVILLE FIREMEN TO SOLICIT SOME FUNDS

Will Make House to House Canvass for Ambulance Fund

TO START TONIGHT

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 5.—Members of Union Fire Company will begin a house to house canvass in the borough and the adjoining section tonight for donations with which to purchase an ambulance to serve residents of this borough and vicinity.

The firemen, who will wear their uniforms so that they can be easily identified as the proper men to make the canvass, are urging every person to give generously to this cause, so that the ambulance can be purchased at an early date.

The Union Fire Company has served the borough since 1893 during which the borough grew from about 2,000 persons to nearly 6,000 and the members say it has been through the splendid co-operation of the citizens that the firemen have been able to keep up the fire protection with the rapid growth of the borough.

The Union firemen in their appeal to the residents for support say there is a great need here for an ambulance. "The citizens should have this service in time of an accident or illness instead of being forced to send to one of the Trenton hospitals or the Trenton police department," the appeal continues.

The Union firemen expect to house the ambulance in their fire house on South Pennsylvania avenue and it will be in service 24 hours a day, throughout the year. The service will be free to residents of Morrisville and that section now served by the fire department.

FRIENDS PLAN TO MEET IN A JOINT SESSION

Orthodox and Hicksite Friends Will Assemble Together, Saturday

TO HOLD TWO SESSIONS

FALLSINGTON, Sept. 5.—Plans are about completed for first joint meeting of the Orthodox and Hicksite Friends, planned for two p. m., daylight saving time, on Saturday next.

The two groups will join in a meeting for worship here, where Quakerism established itself in this section. The two meeting houses are situated on the same grounds, but since 1827 the members have maintained a separate existence, though friendship of the two divisions has been in perfect harmony.

At the reunion the meetings for worship will assemble in the South meeting house and the evening meeting will be held in the North meeting house. These meeting houses and sloping grounds figured in the staging of the William Penn pageant held here two years ago, at which over 2,000 persons attended. This occasion featured the 250th anniversary of the founding of the meeting, much of the success of which was attributed to the late Henry T. Moon.

Floods Threaten

Philadelphia, Sept. 5.—Continued rain after three days of heavy down-pour brought a threat of floods to southeastern Pennsylvania today as rivers continued to rise and a toll of damaged buildings, washed out streets, inundated crops lay in the wake of the storm. With a three inch fall already recorded, the Delaware River rose ten feet above normal here, while the Schuylkill reached a peak of 63 inches over various dams in the city. While Pennsylvania farmers heralded the drenching rains as an end to the August drought, the rains wreaked heavy damage in New Jersey truck garden crops.

GUERNSEY ROYALTY IS SHIPPED TO NEW MEXICO

King of the Fritzlynn Herd Won in The Elimination

AFTER 3800-MILE TRIP

PIPERVILLE, Sept. 5.—With all the pomp and ceremony to which a King is entitled, "Fritzlynn Gifted Boy," the grand champion sire of the well known Fritzlynn Farms Guernsey herd was sold and shipped from the Doylestown station of the Reading Railroad in parlor-car style to A. G. Simms, at Albuquerque, New Mexico, last Saturday.

William F. Fretz, owner of Fritzlynn Farms, said today that one of the best daughters of Fritzlynn Gifted Boy also accompanied the ace sire on the trip to New Mexico where they will head the famous Simms herd.

They were shipped in a special car that was specially fixed up for them and they are being accompanied on the trip by Arthur Wager, who came to Bucks county from Albuquerque last week to make the necessary arrangements to ship the cattle and care for them on the long journey across the continent.

Mr. Simms is building a large estate in Albuquerque with large holdings of land. He determined to stock his estate with Guernseys so he secured the services of W. C. Kay, from Pueblo, Colorado, to select the foundation for his future herd. When Mr. Kay started on his search for the best Guernseys he could find, he had a list of 150 herds to inspect. When he arrived at Fritzlynn Farms he had travelled by automobile 3800 miles, visiting Guernsey herds in the South and East and through New England.

Fritzlynn Gifted Boy, the sire selected, is a double grandson of Upland's Good Gift, who was a noted prize winner and for five years in succession either his sons or grandsons have been either junior, senior or grand champion at the Pennsylvania State Show at Harrisburg. Good Gift was in service at Fritzlynn for more than ten years and practically the entire herd carries his blood. Twenty-six of his daughters have made 32 A. R. records which average over 500 pounds butter fat, all in immature classes, many of them show ring winners.

When Mr. Kay completed his inspection of all these herds, he returned to Fritzlynn and wanted to take several more cows, but found it impossible to send them in this shipment. He said that of all the herds he inspected, the Fritzlynn Guernsey herd was as good as he saw. Mr. Wager, the manager of the herd, said he expected to be back for another carload.

Several weeks ago Fritzlynn Farms shipped from Doylestown to Mr. Hochette, in Illinois, the proven sire, Cosquay's Foremost, to head the herd of Mr. Hochette. Cosquay's Foremost probably sired higher production than any sire ever used at Fritzlynn. His first nine A. R. daughters average 635 pounds butter fat, all in immature classes. Among them was a world record cow in triple letter class.

He has been in service at Fritzlynn more than a year and has been mated to the best in the herd, including many of the daughters of Upland's Good Gift. The Fritzlynn herd numbers 130 head at this time.

MAN KILLED AS HE RIDES IN TRUCK WHICH HITS POLE

Charles R. Schaffer, 25, Tamaqua, Dies Shortly After the Crash

NEAR BRIDGETOWN

Cousin of Victim Was Driving Truck; Father Followed In Another Vehicle

A young man riding in a coal-truck through Middletown Township was fatally injured early this morning when the vehicle struck a pole, while his cousin who was driving escaped without a scratch.

The dead: Charles R. Schaffer, 25, of 29 E. Elm street, Tamaqua.

The driver of the truck was Charles Repp, Jr., 28, of Tamaqua, cousin of Schaffer. The fatal accident is said to have occurred when Repp's machine left the road, and the wheels sinking into the soft shoulder pulled the vehicle directly into a pole at the roadside.

Following in a second coal truck, enroute with the first group to Rockling, N. J., was Schaffer's father, John Schaffer, of Tamaqua R. D. 3, and the latter's son-in-law, John Kaeck, Young Schaffer was the owner of the truck in which he was riding. The accident occurred at 5.30 o'clock, at a point near Bridgetown.

A Langhorne physician was summoned, but Schaffer was beyond aid. He died within a few minutes. The body was removed to the Horner funeral home, Langhorne, and will be taken to Tamaqua tomorrow.

Corporal Evans of the South Langhorne barracks, State Highway Patrol, placed Repp under arrest. He is being held in $2500 bail to await the action of a coroner's jury.

Schaffer is survived by his parents, five sisters, and three brothers.

LEISURE

Back in those dim and distant days when the magic letters NRA were on every tongue and the Blue Eagle looked reassuringly out of every shop window, we had high hopes that an objective gear to our heart would be accomplished. We saw an age of leisure in the offing, and rejoiced. We saw laborer and clerk, lawyer and chemist, industrialist and poet leading the life of Riley. We saw all these things and were happy, and in due course gnashed our teeth along with the Democrats when the supreme court dispersed our dream of an ordered—and leisurely—economy.

For the loss of NRA codes, and trade practices, and price-fixing we can find compensation in the thought that the rugged individualist has been returned to our midst. But for the loss of the leisure which was to have come to every man and woman through this important cog of the new deal machinery we refuse to be consoled. It was our idea of true Utopia when people were required to be lazy by law. We suspected all along that it was too good to be true.

That it is over, we can hardly doubt. Some private concerns, to be sure, retain the shortened work-week and we know lots of people who twiddle their thumbs from Friday until Monday. But the official trend seems to be all the other way. Every person is in a tremendous hurry, and working like fury. From every new deal agency the cry is speed, speed and more speed. In the largest of them all, the WPA, there is a veritable storm of speed with people rushing here and there and flying by fast plane to Washington at the drop of a project application.

All of this saddens us, who had hoped for leisure. It suggests the thought that a good WPA project would be one to authorize the teaching of the art of being lazy. People could learn how to move slowly, work little and be leisurely. We think it ought to be applied for. And in a hurry.

COATLESS OFFENDERS

Men have some rights in hot weather.

A man without a coat entered an elevator in New York City. The elevator boy refused to carry him because the rules of the building prescribed that elevator passengers of the male persuasion must be coated.

The man pleaded ignorance of such a rule, said it was nonsensical, and held up the elevator for half an hour, at the end of which he was arrested on a misdemeanor charge.

The trial court held that inasmuch as the owners of the building had not posted conspicuously their rule regarding the wearing of coats, the coatless man had committed no misdemeanor.

The judge might have gone farther, and commented on the senselessness of a rule which during the dog days must keep messenger boys, delivery men and even warm millionaires from using the elevators of the building in question.

The news that Abahia is pronounced Ah-wah-wah rather complicates things. It looks as if the Ethiopian struggle would be fought with waynet and wulfer.

Blessed are the meek. They don't suffer so much when some other speaker interrupts.

"CAST INTO EDEN" BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS

Jerome Crain, young naval architect, and a beautiful society girl, named Linda, land on a strange isle in the Caribbean after having fled from a quarantined yacht. Their skiff is mysteriously set adrift and their clothes stolen, yet there is no other sign of a living human at first. Intermittently, however, blood-curdling cries come from the jungle. The mystery deepens with the finding of a well-kept though deserted plantation. They take refuge in a small house there. That night, Linda's slip is torn off her by some unseen creature and again the eerie scream is heard. Linda, frightened, insists that Jerome stay near her. "Night before last you couldn't bear the prospect of having me aboard the same yacht with you," he says, ironically, "and now you insist on having me in the same house." The mystery of the night prowlers and stolen clothing clears with the appearance of a mother gorilla and her mate. Linda feeds them sugar and they are friendly, but she is terrified.

CHAPTER XIV

She gave a shiver. "What's to stop them from coming into the house? I shan't dare go out. Go—only in fake moths."

"Well," she said cryptically, "It's always an alibi. But this Paradise is still farther from that thing."

He tried to reassure her. But the memory of the nocturnal visitant made him none too sure himself. . . . Jerome had read in descriptions of African expeditions that beating of the chest was ominous—a preliminary to attack. He hoped it would be different in a gorilla that had been reared in semi-captivity and subject to discipline. He said as much to Linda.

"The trouble is we're not his master," she objected. "That big brute may think we've made way with him."

It was not a pleasant situation. Linda would be afraid to leave the premises and she would not let Jerome leave her. The nights would be still more filled with terror for her. The father of the tribe was evidently not satisfied with the new Adam and his Eve as caretakers for their Garden of Eden.

Linda said dully, "If I so much as take a nap here on the verandah one of the bad boys of the family is apt to slip up and yank off what little clothes I have left. Not that I would mind much."

Jerome was thinking hard. "You stand well with mother and the two younger children. The chances are that papa and the older boys, if any, will hear about the handout and come round to cadge a little sugar."

"It's a wonder they don't get after the chickens and eggs and fruit."

"I'd say they'd been trained to leave the premises alone. They might not be able to resist tools and things though."

Linda nodded. "There was something about the way mother slapped her elder little boy and then cleared out. As if she really had no business here and knew it. I'll bet that nobody has ever been as glad to see this proprietor as I'll be when and if he comes back."

"Don't worry, Linda. He's probably taught these pets of his to behave. He may be working on some theory to develop their intelligence. Stealing our clothes looks like that. And wearing them, still more so. They got their breakfast and the day wore on. But now they found themselves confined closely to the premises with the feeling that these would be sanctuary, at least from hostile violence. No place, however beautiful, to which one may be limited can long preserve its attractiveness. There was not enough to do. Linda was not interested in the library selection. She was reassured when Jerome found some descriptive matter about gorillas and read it to her. These great apes had been maligned by African explorers and hunters. Later reports on their character were far more encouraging. Baboons were the only real bad actors of the Simian family.

Linda was taking her siesta with Jerome on guard reading when his prophesy about the elder males was fulfilled. He had not heard a sound. Even the big macaw that did not seem to care for their society, but came and went as if feeling obliged to keep an eye on them occasionally, had flown off with disparaging cries.

The first that Jerome was aware of any visitor was the strange musky smell that he had got through the jealousies the night before. It was not the fetid odor in the monkey-house of a zoo but more like that of some sickly sweetly noxious plant. Yet one knew instantly that its origin was not vegetable but animal.

Jerome could feel his hair creeping a little at the nape of his neck. Standing nearly erect and almost within reach of him stood an enormous and magnificent specimen of Equatorial African gorilla. The huge brute must have been a full six feet in height when drawn up straight, and its dimensions of chest and limbs and abdomen were, from the human scale, disproportionately colossal for its stature. A Primo Carnera of the jungle indeed!

Yet after the initial shock Jerome was not frightened. There is no face more expressive than that of the ape family because the facial muscles are so controllable and responsive to emotion. His first glance at the features of this great Simian told Jerome that it had come in peace and friendliness and curiosity. Its brown mottled close-set eyes rolled at him quizzically and he thought a little pleadingly. A constant tremor played through the long upper lip and it came to a droop as Jerome watched motionless. Then it clicked its tongue softly, running it afterward over the fearful half-bared fangs.

Jerome was afraid that Linda might waken and be terrified into a convulsion. She was sleeping lightly with her face pressed to the wall of the house. He said softly . . .

"Linda . . ."

"Don't move. Don't look round, and above all don't scream."

"What?"

"Papa Goril has come to make a call. He looks jolly and good-natured. He was probably trying to take a rise out of us last night. Don't shriek or anything like that."

She lay perfectly still. The huge beast appeared to like the sound of Jerome's pleasant modulated voice. It grinned, then reached out a hand compared to which Jerome's was like that of a little girl to that of an old-time boson's mate. Jerome held her breath and took the Prime Carnera paw by two fingers that were smooth and cold, and gave them a little shake. "How are you, old chap?" he said. "Glad to make your acquaintance."

The gorilla chuckled and imitated the shake, more forcibly. Jerome let go. The big beast did not try to hold him.

"It's all right," Jerome said to Linda, who had not budged. "We've shaken hands. Hold yourself together and look round slowly."

He heard the wicker squeak as she turned, and then a deep-drawn gasp. The gorilla's eyes rolled at her, but not evilly. They showed a lively curiosity. She said steadily enough: "My most awful nightmare never had anything on that . . ."

"He's all right," Jerome assured her. "Wants to make friends with the master's guests. A little hospitality might be in order."

"Heavens . . . what shall I get him?"

Control Bean Weevils—Heating beans and peas to 150 degrees F. will kill weevils but destroys the germinating power of the seeds. Carbon bisulphide can be used for fumigation without injuring the beans or peas. Ask your county agent for directions and precautions to follow.

Grow Good Tomatoes—Pennsylvania tomatoes have a reputation for high quality. Good cultural practices in communities with favorable soil and climatic conditions result not only in high yields per acre but also high quality.

Feed Young Foal—Usually the foal is weaned when 4½ to 6 months old, depending upon circumstances. If the foal has been fed increasing quantities of grain as it developed, the weaning process will not be difficult. The quantity of milk will have been greatly decreased.

Pick Ripe Tomatoes—A tomato changes gradually from green, yellowish red to a bright red in the process of ripening. It is necessary for each picker to be constantly alert in order not to miss any of the mature red tomatoes and particularly to distinguish between yellowish red and red colors.

Start New Berry Plants—Tip-layering may be practiced until the middle of September in starting new raspberry plants. Your county agent can give detailed information on the procedure.

Fertilize Lawns Now—Fertilizer should be applied to the lawn in the Fall when crabgrass and most other lawn weeds are not growing. The grass also enjoys a naturally favorable growing season.

concluded reciting the list of former arrests and convictions of the defendant.

Explaining to the Court that he believed he could make a man of himself and have something to do in the line of prison employment, Willingham, in a matter of fact and business-like fashion, asked Judge Keller to change the term of imprisonment from the County Prison to that of the Eastern State Penitentiary.

Judge Keller agreed and ordered the Court Clerk to note the change. Pleading guilty to stealing the car, valued at $150, and the radio, estimated to be worth $29.50, Willingham, who was a former week-end guest at the Croydon home, stated he took the radio with the idea of repairing it, but that he changed his mind and took it to a loan office. "I was drinking and didn't care what I was doing. I got $8 for it."

When the trial was over, the fiancée, Alice Maier, was presented with the pawn ticket stub by a court officer. Stating that he wanted to take the car to Philadelphia in order to repair it, he told the Court he forgot where he left it on the street because he was drinking. The car was towed into a garage by the city police after it had been stranded for some time.

Judge Keller asked Miss Maier how long she knew her former boy friend. "About a year. I never knew that he was this type of a man," she uttered, rather abashed.

"You were lucky to find out before it was too late," said the Judge.

Rush Application For New Water System

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 5—Because it was necessary to file application, plans and specifications for WPA projects today at the latest, Common Council yesterday decided to have Remington, Vosbury & Goff, consulting engineers, complete the plans which were drawn some months ago for the enlarging and improving of the present filtration plant. These plans together with all other required data were sent by special messenger to the State headquarters of the WPA in Harrisburg today.

The application carried with it the proviso that should it be found that a well system of water supply be more advantageous to Morrisville citizens than the latter system would be installed.

Common Council met with two new engineers last week when the matter of both filtration and wells were discussed and it was then suggested that a competent engineer be employed to study the entire water situation. This had been done by the engineer now in the employ of the borough, but, Council never saw fit before to proceed with any of the plans or suggestions submitted.

Council has also voted to have a test made to ascertain whether an ample supply of water and also the proper kind of water can be procured from the ground. These tests will cost $300 each and it is estimated that it will take two or three tests before it can be definitely ascertained whether the well supply will be advisable. It is believed that should it be found that the well proposition will be the best believe it advisable to make the then a meeting of the citizens will be change.

held or some kind of referendum taken to learn what the taxpayers think of the proposition.

Councilman Elwood Kohl is opposed to scrapping the present filtration plant and substituting of wells because of what he terms the many uncertainties which are liable to enter into the change. He points out that there is a large debt still on the water and filtration plant and he does not believe it advisable to make the

With the plans now submitted to the PWA it is believed that the engineering firm employed originally and to whom $500 has already been paid for water filtration plant plans will be continued should the present filtration plant be improved. In that event the $500 expended will be credited on the whole job and the borough will not lose any of these fees.

WHY NOT LIFT THE LID?

Do the Washington correspondents read the Congressional Record? What of the charge hurled on the floor of the House recently that the TVA would not let a single church be built in a town of 2,500 workers? Or is religion something which does not dovetail with the New Deal?

How many freaks are there in Congress, and what did they amount to before they were elected on the wave of Roosevelt emotionalism and hysteria?

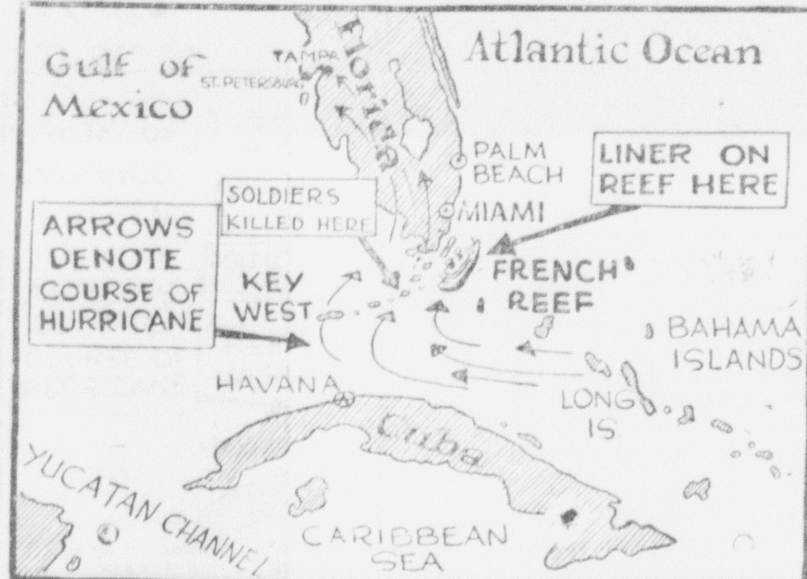

Who is this Ben Cohen, Brain Trust lawyer, who helped draft the Rayburn-Wheeler bill, and why does the administration insist upon his presence in the deliberations of the conference committee on this bill, to the amazement and disgust of several of its members? Who is this other Brain Trust lawyer, Thomas G. Corcoran? What are the backgrounds of these bright young limbs of the law, and how much do they come under the Frankfurter influence?

What is the secret of the President's animus to Henry Ford and the other wealthy men of the country? Why the sudden adoption of the soak-the-rich program? What ever became of the tax suit against Uncle Andy Mellon? How many of these investigations are one-sided and staged purely for political propaganda? Why has Mrs. Roosevelt withdrawn from the limelight?

Oh, there is a perfect wealth of material down there for a book which might aptly be entitled, "Lifting the Lid Off the New Deal," but why are the newspapers with available writers lying down on the job?

Death and Destruction Scene

This map depicts the area of the terrific storm that swept across Florida claiming a heavy toll in human lives and leaving terrifying scenes of devastation. The liner Dixie went aground on French Reef, and many lives were lost when towns and camps on the Florida keys were wiped out.

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD—Of course, it is one of those stories that didn't quite happen, but Maureen O'Sullivan and Johnny Weissmuller had their hearts in their mouths for a long while—a minute when a sudden noise might have set loose a real elephant stampede in the jungle.

Maureen O'Sullivan

The cameras were set up for a scene in which Johnny and Maureen climb upon the back of elephants and ride into the jungle followed by a band of friendly apes. The two players mounted, the eight trained elephants started and the apes were loosed. Suddenly, one of the apes upset a reflector. The crash and the crazy reflection of light caught the elephants unaware. Symptoms of panic appeared. For a few seconds, it was touch and go whether the beasts would stampede. Their trainer came rushing in, caught the leader's trunk and pulled it down.

That was all there was to it. But the slightest change of circumstance might have led the headlines with one of the weirdest stories that ever came out of Hollywood.

This gossip community is intrigued by the visit of Beatrice "Betty" Lee to Danny Dowling, Hollywood dancing master now serving a 30-day sentence in the county jail. For Betty Lee is the same who once was Miss America, who is the former wife of an important engineer on the Boulder dam project and whose name was mentioned for a while with that of Winifred Sheehan. Now, says Dowling, she'll become his bride when he gets out of jail and secures his final decree of divorce.

Just heard a story that helps explain why Glenda Farrell is known to Hollywood as a regular fellow. The Warner Brothers' actress recently received an unusual plea from a girl stranded in Joliet, Ill. The kid had quarreled with her family about coming to Hollywood and had run away. She had run away as far as St. Louis, but took sick in Joliet and had to go into the hospital. Now, she is out and is working as a waitress to pay the debts from her illness. She wrote Glenda, enclosing a letter to her mother, and asked the star to mail it in Hollywood. She is paid and wants the family to think she is making good. Glenda mailed it.

letter but wrote the girl advising her to go home and offering to pay her fare. But things have been happening. The kid has fallen in love and wants to marry a chap in Joliet and settle down. She has asked Glenda to keep up the deception by mailing one more letter to her mother. As soon as she and her husband can save enough money, they are going to go to New York and confess the whole thing to her family.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Charles Cramer, Los Angeles: You heard it right. The Valentino estate is still getting letters from fans who believe the star is alive. They are chiefly from Europe where his pictures are still being shown.

A delayed train spoiled a romantic scene on the return of Cecilia Parker from the New England location of the "Ah Wilderness" troupe. Eric Linden was waiting at the station at 5:15 in the morning when the train was supposed to pull in. It kept on being postponed later and later until he finally missed it and when last heard from, he was still trying to get in touch with Cecilia. When this department asked her if they are to be married, she said: "You'll have to talk to Eric."

What Hollywood dance director goes so many complaints from certain neighbors about his parties that, in a fit of annoyance, he bought the house they are renting? Now, as landlord, he holds the upper hand.

HOLLYWOOD TICKER-TAPE—

The Bing Crosby radio next year will be one hour instead of 20 minutes. The star has always opposed the longer period but money finally talked. It is lucky for Paramount that Sylvia Sidney accepted the role in Walter Wanger's "Mary Burns, Fugitive". They had to get her started in a picture immediately or her contract was violated. . . . Jean Harlow and Bill Powell were having a big discussion in the Beverly Hills Derby the other evening about the role of Lillian Lescage in "The Great Ziegfeld". Many have suggested Jean for the role. . . . Jimmy Cagney's mother and sister, Jeannette, will move to California next year. Jeannette will become a student at U. C. L. A.

DID YOU KNOW?

That there will be no ducks in Joe Penner's new picture?

OUTSTANDING!

Judge Elder W. Marshall

Foremost in qualifications among the Republican candidates for the nomination of Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania is Judge Elder W. Marshall who has served for years with distinction on the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County.

In the prime of life, Judge Marshall is a true Pennsylvanian, coming from a famous Pennsylvania family dating back to Colonial days.

His life is a record of service—to his country as a soldier in the Army during the World War—to the public as a judge on the bench—to young students as an instructor at the University of Pittsburgh Law School—to his family as a devoted father and husband.

He has shown a keen knowledge of the law and of the social and economic problems facing the laboring man, the farmer, the employer and women and children.

In the recent referendum held by members of the Bar of Allegheny County on judicial candidates, Judge Marshall received 1,258 out of 1,427 votes cast. It was the largest vote ever given a candidate in the history of the bar.

Even fair-minded Philadelphians will agree that the County of Philadelphia is not entitled to five seats on the Supreme Court bench. Nomination of Judge Marshall will insure fair representation on our highest court.

"MY FAVORITE DISH

HOW I PREPARE IT!"

--BY--

MRS. ALFRED McLAUGHLIN
1009 POND STREET

Macaroni and cheese cutlet is my favorite dish.

This is an excellent and appetizing main-course recipe, and one that is an aid to the budget also.

The method of preparation follows:

Use one cupful of macaroni, broken in small pieces. Cook in water, to which pinch of salt has been added, until tender. Drain.

Rub together one tablespoonful of flour and one tablespoonful butter until smooth. Stir this in one cup of boiling milk. Cook until it thickens. Beat one egg very light. Add the egg and macaroni to the liquid. Season to taste. Add paprika if desired.

Take from fire, add one-fourth pound grated cheese. Let stand overnight. Shape in cutlet form. Roll in egg and bread crumbs, and fry in deep, hot fat.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly
(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Taking up where I left off yesterday, bias-cut skirts, which give that slender effect to the hipline, will continue to be seen this fall, for evening wear, although the trend is definitely away from that into the flowing Grecian and draped silhouette with fullness emanating higher from a held-in hipline. Many designers will tell you it's passe to have your gown cut bias now, and the flare placed low ... but my answer to that is, you'll keep on seeing them for a long time, because they flatter the figure.

The popular shirtwaist type of sports dress has been worn for ages. But I honestly believe it hasn't even begun to hit its stride. More feminized, probably, as a concession to the era of luxury and grace we're now beginning, I predict it will go on and on.

So strongly do I believe that, in fact, that I have given two of them to those smart girls, Patricia Ellis and Margaret Lindsay, to wear in their latest pictures. Reason: you can't beat 'em for becomingness, comfort, practicality.

Other "good, old" styles I note as continuing in the new fall modes, are the tunic dress; the normal waistline, which is most flattering for the greatest number; the beloved sweater and skirt, especially with pull-ons and twin sets; the draped cowl neck; and in the evening realm again, the back surprise is paying us another visit.

Tunics, by the way, now emphasize their Russian descent, in dresses and coats alike, the line often being flared husar style and edged round the hem with fur. Only one thing have I to say regarding this picturesque mode: it's for the tall girls like Kay Francis and Jean Muir only ... although you can get away with it if you're medium height, and slender. If you're inclined to plumpness ... don't try it!

Get Lasting Benefit from Relief Labor!

BUILD NEEDED SIDEWALKS AND OTHER PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS

WORK relief projects must be found. The best ones are those which result in permanent community benefits.

Many blocks of new sidewalks are urgently needed—will have to be built soon anyway to extend present walks or replace old, wornout, dangerous walks.

Why not build these needed walks with relief labor? Hundreds of other cities have found this type of project ideal.

Curb and gutter construction, drainage structures, park improvements, swimming pools, salvaging old streets—these are only a few among hundreds of beneficial concrete improvements that create maximum work.

You, Mr. Taxpayer, can help your community obtain needed permanent improvements like those mentioned above. Make known to your local officials and relief authorities the betterments you think should be included in your community's relief program. They will be glad of your help.

Write or wire for literature and timely facts on specific types of projects using concrete.

BOUTS POSTPONED UNTIL MONDAY NIGHT

The amateur boxing bouts scheduled for last night were again postponed because of rain. At a special meeting of the athletic committee held in the St. Ann's club house it was decided to hold the bouts next Monday night instead of tonight as originally planned.

Meanwhile, Match-Maker Sammy Moffo is seeking two more local boys to participate in the bouts so that the entire card of ten fights will be filled with Bristolians. At the present time eight localities are on the card, with the other two matches being between mittmen of the city. Moffo will not sign any youth who is not in shape to appear in the bouts.

Opponents for the eight Bristol gloves will come from the following boxing clubs of Philadelphia: Arena, Sigma Theta, East Side, and the Mason Club. Roosevelt Rowe, who has scored two knock-out victories here, is expected to take on a third opponent.

Complete arrangements for Monday night's bouts will be announced in these columns later.

INJURED KNEE CAUSE OF HIS DEFEAT, SAYS YAROSZ

By Victor J. Jacobs
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(INS)—"I injured my knee in the first minutes of the fight and that is why I lost to Risko last New Year's Day."

In the moments of abashment that came with each demand for explanation of his technical kayo at the hands of a comparative unknown mittman in an exhibition at Scranton, it has been on this alibi that Teddy Yarosz, world middleweight champion, has fallen back, and with evident success, for salvation.

The time nears at hand now when the handsome, young Monaca Pole will attempt to physically vindicate that claim and, simultaneously, also hand his conqueror the opportunity to strip him of the title which many believe calculatedly belongs to the aforementioned Risko. Eddie "Babe" Risko is his working name and he is the same boy who hammered the champ to the floor with monotonous regularity in that famed battle before Yarosz's handlers stepped in to save their fighter.

Contracts have been signed which call for the champion to defend his crown against the erstwhile "tar" from Syracuse in a 15-round bout at Forbes Field, home of the Pittsburgh baseball club, the night of September 19.

Yarosz, through the efforts of his manager, Ray Foutts, will receive a guarantee of $25,000 or the choice of 40 per cent of the gate, while Gebe Genovese agreed to a $25,000 guarantee or 10 per cent of the receipts between $40,000 and $50,000 and 20 per cent of all monies over $50,000 for the challenger. The match is to be promoted by sportsmen's enterprise.

The match was closed after much dickering on Foutts' part that had the scene and opponent of a Yarosz title defense changing from one place to another as the team scouted around

Mighty Muscle Men

By BURNLEY

Next year's Olympic games are already the subject of considerable speculation, particularly regarding America's chances of repeating the sure-fire triumphs of the past.

In the sprints, some of the shorter distances, and in certain field events such as the pole vault and probably the broad jump and high jump, Uncle Sam's representatives are fairly certain to come out on top, but in the distance runs and the weight events it will be another story.

The recent European invasion made by several groups of American athletes resulted in a majority of victories being scored by the United States representatives, but the fundamental weaknesses of our track teams remained unremedied.

In the weight events, only the elephantine Jack Torrance, shot put phenom, seems likely to cop Olympic laurels. Baby Jack, a 270-pounder on the loose, holds all the world standards for tossing the heavy iron pellet around, and it is to be hoped that the big boy will get in good condition for the 1936 classic.

Our best bets in the discus throw would seem to be Kenny Carpenter, of U. S. C., and Slinger Dunn and Henri Laborde of the Olympic Club. Carpenter, who holds the N. C. A. R. discus laurels, did well enough in recent European competition, although he was beaten a couple of times during the tour. However, neither Kenny nor the other two muscle men have been able to hit 170 feet this year, while a young German by the name of Schroeder has already tossed the platter past the 174-foot distance.

In another weight event, the hammer throw, Dr. Pat O'Callaghan of Ireland has far surpassed anything shown by such American exponents of the hammer toss as Dreyer, Kishon and Cruikshank.

"To East and points Westward in arch of a 'best bid'."

After the surprising Scranton fight, Yarosz underwent a medical examination and produced proof that a cartilage of his leg was damaged. He had seen little action as a champion for the injury came a short time after Teddy whipped Vince Dundee for the title. Since returning to action after months of idleness, he has met a couple of "tune-up" mixers by way of getting back into the swing of things and we now find him anxious to redeem himself.

"It's going to be a real fight this time," Ted remarked. "I'm going in there to vindicate myself for the criticism that followed that championship fight with Dundee and my bad fight with Risko."

Since Risko was thrust into the spotlight, he has been quite active filling demands of promoters throughout the East and has built a record that shapes up fairly well, one of his recent victims being ex-champion Dundee.

HULMEVILLE-DOLINGTON GAME ON SATURDAY

Hulmeville A. A. and the Dolington Cornhuskers, batters for the championship of the Delaware River League, will play the second game of the five-game series Saturday on the Hulmeville diamond. This was the decision reached last night between the officials of the league and the directors of the teams represented.

The first game of the series was played last Sunday at Hulmeville. The second tilt scheduled for Labor Day at Dolington was called off. The third game will be played Sunday at Dolington. The fourth game comes back to Hulmeville next Saturday, while the fifth, if necessary, will be played on a neutral field which will be Island Park in Morrisville. It was agreed to take a percentage of the receipts for a banquet to be held at the close of the season.

The first game of the series was captured by the Cornhuskers after Howard Black faltered in the final frame to enable the Doles to count seven runs and win the tilt, 7-4. It is most likely that Black will again hurl against the McGarymen, Saturday.

CASEYS ARE FAVORITES IN CONTEST TONIGHT

The Caseys are the favorites to win the second game of the Bristol Twilight League play-off championship series tonight on Leedom's field. The Cubans won the first fray last Sunday but with Ralph Stromp breezing them across the platter tonight, it looks like a sure win for the second half title-holders.

Stromp aided the Knights immensely in their second half climb to the championship and earlier in the season defeated the colored boys. He is undefeated in the Twilight League and feels confident of evening the series. His battery mate will be Joe Dougherty, the lad who led the hitters in the first contest.

Manager Frank Washington, of the Cubans, is undecided as to whom he will start on the mound. He would like to send Johnny Braggs back at the Radcliffe street boys but is uncertain whether his ace hurler's arm is in shape. Braggs held the Caseys without a hit until his arm was injured. If Braggs isn't ready to serve either "Eddie" Thompson or "Slim" Davis will toe the rubber.

The tilt is scheduled to begin at six o'clock sharp. In the event of rain the officials have decided that the tilt shall be played tomorrow night with the third game scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

His 300-Mile Goal Attained

Whizzing along the salt flats at Bonneville, Utah, for a new world record of 301.3 miles an hour, Sir Malcolm Campbell achieved the ambition for which he has risked his life a score of times. points each for originality, arrangement, decoration, craftsmanship, variety, clarity, practicability, and educational. The exhibits were judged by District Commissioner Harold D. R. Crumrine of Langhorne assisted by Scout Executive William F. Livermore.

Six patrols made standard rating: Lion, Sellersville (aviation); Moose, Chalfont (modeling); Beaver, Perkasio No. 1 (woodcraft); Beaver, Quakertown No. 2 (forestry); Beaver, Sellersville (leathercraft); and Eagle, Richlandtown (handicraft). The Flying Eagle Patrol of Quakertown No. 2 had an excellent knot board but did not have sufficient other display material.

District Commissioner Francis D. Heyder assisted by neighborhood commissioners Jess Cressman and O. Kenneth Fretz of Quakertown, and Frank Jackson of Sellersville with many seascouts, scouts, seascouters, and scouts completely renovated what will become known as Scoutcraft Cabin. Scout Executive William F. Livermore was assisted in the wiring and construction of display spaces by assistant scoutmaster William M. Carlin, Jr., and Scouts Joseph Clark, George Carlin, and Charles Good. Scoutmaster Gilbert W. Carlin made many attractive signs, and arranged an artistic entrance sign.

Probe Death of Man

Philadelphia, Sept. 5.—Climaxing a night-long investigation, Homicide Squad detectives today declared the steering wheel of his automobile may hold the key to the solution of the strange slaying of Joseph Gabriel, organizer and business agent for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. Slumped over the steering wheel with a bullet through his head, Gabriel was found murdered in his car near the Municipal stadium. Investigators believe he was shot by a disgruntled and jobless union member. Working on that theory detectives are examining the steering wheel in the belief the assassin fired the fatal shot and then grasped the wheel and guided the car to a stop.

United States Possessions Offer Critical Problems

A counterpart to England's troubles with her Suez canal and her colonial possessions is the United States' own difficulties with her canal, the Panama canal, and her territorial dependencies. The Canal Zone, administered by a military government under the war department, is beset by unrest and friction. The problem is vital to the mother country for the Canal Zone is a vital link in Uncle Sam's national defense. Other troubles have confronted the United States for some time. The problem of Philippine independence has, for years, been a perplexing one. Independence has been granted, but observers declare the question still is unanswered. Puerto Rico has a steadily-increasing population, promulgating serious social and economic problems. The Hawaiian islands, America's bulwark against aggression from the East, presents a problem of defense.
